It's Official - "Astley Hire is the No. 1 Hire Company for the Food Industry"

Following several months of preparation; with the review of our processes and methods with particular regards to food safety, Astley Hire became the first* Hire Business to achieve third party certification demonstrating HACCP compliance. HACCP; Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Point, is the methodology utilised by the food industry to identify, control and manage food safety risks in their operations.

As our client base in the food industry grew, our senior management took the unprecedented decision to implement HACCP to achieve an independently assessed competence to service the hire requirements of the food industry that fully addresses the unique technical and safety concerns of the industry. The process has involved some changes and adjustments to existing operations, training activities and the introduction of new hygiene arrangements and controls of our service to food industry clients.

From our checks in the Hire Industry as it stands, we remain arguably the first and only equipment hire company that has achieved this feat. For us, as an organisation allied to the food chain, we take seriously our responsibilities in supporting client organisations to achieve their compliance requirements as an integral part of their business goals.

"Now the North West food industry has a hire company that takes full ownership of its own food safety responsibilities seamlessly complementing the food supply chain"

Astley Hire will continue our existing culture of servicing both the stated and unstated needs of our customers. Should you require any further information regarding our HACCP certification or any other issues, kindly contact us
